Dear John:

I received your letter of 15 November 1950 yesterday.

Today I dispatched a message to [REDACTED] saying that in view of the fact that [REDACTED] is transferring to Washington your tour of duty is extended approximately six months, if agreeable. This makes a detailed reply to your letter somewhat unnecessary I believe.

However I should like to assure you that my plan to return you to Washington for reassignment rather than have you come on reorientation and return to [REDACTED] should not be interpreted as a reflection upon your performance of duty in [REDACTED] in any manner. I have heard nothing but commendable reports concerning your duty performance and I wish to reassure you that I am motivated solely by the reasons stated in my 30 October letter.

I shall look forward to seeing you and Terry next summer.

Sincerely,
